

The Work Begun 135 Years Ago Continues Today

We have enjoyed taking time this year to look back on the 135-year history of the Wright City Cemetery Memorial Society and to remember all those past members who worked tirelessly through those years to care for and improve the Wright City Cemetery. It is a history that illustrates what can be accomplished when individuals with a common goal come together and work to achieve that goal.

We hope you have also enjoyed this look back and perhaps you have gained a deeper appreciation for the Society's work these past 135 years.

Our members today are committed to carrying on what was begun when a dozen women gathered in 1888 to form an organization dedicated to caring for and beautifying the cemetery. We have more cemetery projects planned, and we'll keep you posted about those projects as they progress. As always, we invite you to share your ideas, suggestions and concerns.

We are grateful to all who have supported the Society throughout the years. That support has enabled the Society to continually improve and beautify the Wright City Cemetery. As we have looked back over the past 100-plus years, we can all agree much has been accomplished.
